Agfa to spotlight inkjet printing innovation at The Print Show 2025

Mortsel, Belgium – Agfa, a global leader in inkjet printing solutions, is excited to announce its participation in The Print Show 2025, taking place at the NEC Birmingham, UK from 23-25 September.

Visitors to The Print Show will find Agfa at stand P200, where the company will present its latest advancements in inkjet technology to the wide format printing community.

Agfa's presence at the event underscores its commitment to driving innovation for print service providers and the broader inkjet market. With decades of experience and a relentless focus on research and development, Agfa continues to empower print professionals with cutting-edge solutions designed to boost productivity, quality, and profitability.

Paul Fitch, Head of Inkjet UK, Ireland & Nordic at Agfa, said: "The Print Show is a cornerstone event for the UK print sector, and we are thrilled to return to it in 2025. We're really looking forward to connecting with attendees and sharing how our innovations and inkjet expertise can help them unlock new opportunities, streamline workflows, and deliver outstanding results. Our specialists will be available on our stand to talk delegates through our technology and services and explain how we can support their growth in a rapidly evolving marketplace."

Agfa invites all attendees to visit stand P200 to discover how its latest inkjet printing innovations are driving the future of print.
